

MAGNITUDE OF THE FLOODS.

Mississippi's Volume Steadily Getting Larger.

Waters Reaching for Property and Human Lives.

Passage Forced Through the Levee at Madison, Ill.—St. Louis Water Front Deserted.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

ST. LOUIS, June 5.—The terrific force and the destructive magnitude of the great flood that is sweeping down the Mississippi, steadily increasing in volume, surmounting and demolishing barriers of protection and greedily lapping at property and reaching for lives, as it relentlessly extends farther and farther beyond the ordinary river confines, is now being felt in St. Louis and vicinity to a great extent. The Mississippi, north of the mouth of the Missouri, is rising as has been diminished because of the rise has been diminished because of the breaks in the levees. The great St. Louis levee, which extends for miles along the Illinois shore from Hannibal northward, broke today, and the angry water went rushing through the breach, to devastate thousands of acres of fertile farming land. No reports of loss of life have so far been received.

Later in the day, the flood forced passage through the levee at Madison, Ill., just north of St. Louis. This levee is fifteen miles long, and for days men have been hard at work endeavoring to strengthen it. Now, however, a town of 2000 people, is located in a depression between the levee and a railroad embankment. Ample warning should have been given, and the inhabitants sought safety when the danger came. It is believed that all escaped.

In St. Louis, the buildings along the river front have practically been abandoned, as the first floors are over a foot under water, which stands tonight two feet deep on the top of the steamboat levee.

In South St. Louis, fully 100 families living near the mouth of the River Des Peres were forced to leave their homes today by the advancing waters. Many families living in houseboats fled to land for shelter. Excepting the different levees, the only barrier between the city and the river is the Mississippi river levee, which is now reported as critical.

TOPEKA'S DEAD. (BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

TOPEKA, June 5.—The dead in the Topeka flood now number seventy-eight. The greater part of North Topeka is a waste of sand, burying the land from a mere coating to a depth of two to four feet. Generous responses are being received, and the city is being helped to draw on organizations for funds.

TRACKS IN TROUBLE. (BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

ST. LOUIS, June 5.—A special to the Post-Dispatch from Booneville, Mo., says that the Missouri, Kansas and Texas tracks, from Kingsburg to Franklin Junction, are under water and the immense railroad dike leading from the end of the bridge here to Kingsburg, half a mile, is in imminent danger.

Precautionary measures prevented what might have been a very serious wreck. Last night, a Santa Fe special of six Pullmans, containing a party of eastern tourists, arrived here en route to New York. A bullet train was sent to test the track, which gave way beneath it. One negro was drowned below here, and Francisco Kluga, a young farmer, is missing. The Mississippi has broken through the levee at points below Oldenburg, above Granite City, Ill., and is flooding valuable farms in the bottoms.

RICH MEN SEND MONEY.

REFUGEES IN CAMP. (BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 5.—George Gould today sent $5000 to the Kansas City, Kan., Relief Committee, and President Burt of the Union Pacific sent $500 to each Kansas City. There were other liberal contributions of money and supplies, and the total cash received in both cities is about $75,000.

FLOODED THE COUNTRY. CLOUDBURST WEST OF ST. LOUIS. (BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

ST. LOUIS, June 5.—Reports are received of a cloudburst, which has reached the Mississippi, about twenty miles west of St. Louis. The country for miles around was flooded to a depth of six inches for several hours. While the storm was at its height, a one-story house came down the Merriam River and struck the Fenton bridge, cutting it in two.

The river, although it is out of its banks, and in places as wide as an inland sea, is rising more rapidly today than at any time since the present flood began. The flood has reached a stage where barriers have been surmounted and every additional inch increases a menace to life and property out of proportion to the actual amount of the rise.

The chief menace to East St. Louis, aside from the Missouri levee break, is the water breaking in the backwater of Cahokia River. For several days the water has been rushing up this stream from the Mississippi with the speed of a mill-race and spreading wherever it could find an outlet.

RELEF COMMITTEE'S MANIFESTO. KANSAS CITY, KAN., NEEDY. (BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

KANSAS CITY, June 5.—The Citizens General Relief Committee of Kansas City, Mo., has issued a statement to the public giving thanks for sympathy and offers of aid, and asking that the assistance be sent to Kansas City, Kan., the statement follows:

"As we decline, at this time, to accept assistance from without, it is because we are doing our best to help ourselves. The situation which confronts us to the fullest extent of our ability. The relief which we need is not of a doubtful nature, but it is not disaster."

"The bottom land, known among us as West Kansas City, is the severest case of the flood. It is a level of ten feet, and there is every reason to fear that there has been a great loss of life and property. The poor, and to the goods, and possibly buildings of wholesale merchants and business men. But until these districts are cleared of water, we cannot be until possibly next Monday, it is futile to estimate the damage and to make a statement of the relief necessary."

"The immediate task of caring for the homeless, clothing and providing for them is well in hand. There is no suffering unrelieved. The spirit of the people is splendid. The danger of the flood is not a disaster. The governments of the two cities have sanitation and police well in hand. There is no disturbance, there is even no disorderliness. We are the subsidence of the water there will be a resumption of business, and industry will resume its customary way. Whatever may be the loss of our merchants, they will bear it; we may find a great deal of sympathy in the property of the working people than is now anticipated, and if so we will have to call for assistance from without, but until such a situation develops we see no cause for asking assistance."

"It is proper, however, to state that Kansas City, Kan., and other neighboring towns in Kansas have suffered severely, and while Kansas City, Mo., generously came to their assistance, we must not stand in the way of assistance to our neighbors from other sections of the country. To those willing to assist these stricken towns we recommend that they address their offers to W. H. Craddock, Mayor of Kansas City, Kan."

Four bodies passed down the Missouri within an hour before noon today, with a quantity of drift that came out with the current from between the Armour and Fowler packing-houses, situated at the mouth of the Kaw. The bodies were carried along so swiftly that they could not be recovered.

TOPEKA CLEANING UP. TEN MORE BODIES SEEN. (BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

TOPEKA (Kan.) June 5.—The river today was nine feet below the highest recorded point, the water having fallen during the night at the rate of an inch. The approaches to the Melvin bridge on Kansas avenue were completed early today, and a steady stream of people, carrying shovels and brooms, were soon on their way to North Topeka to clean their homes and streets. The water has receded from the main business streets for a distance of five blocks north of Gordon street, and has left an accumulation of mud and slime that in some cases is piled three feet high along the fronts of stores and in many of the buildings. In spite of the most determined efforts, the water company has been unable as yet to force the water out over the entire city.

The list of known dead must be added the names of ten persons whose bodies were recovered or seen in the river up to noon today. Seven of the victims were swept away in a body from the vicinity of No. 1900 North Harrison street. They are:

MRS. SCHUMWEILER, GEORGE SCHUMWEILER, MRS. JESSIE STOUT and four children.

The bodies of Nellie Watson and George McDonald, both aged, and Peter Edwards, all colored, were discovered on the North Side. KANSAS RIVERS STILL FALLING. (BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

KANSAS CITY, June 5.—Rivers generally throughout Kansas are still falling, while a cloudburst, which submerged fields, swept away small buildings, washed out bridges and caused a small creek to rise six feet within half an hour, is reported to have been seen as far as learned, no lives were lost.

JEFFERSON CITY DISTRESS. (BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 5.—At this point the rising water is six inches since last night. Nearly all the residences in the bottoms have been abandoned, and this morning the colored people have been turned out of a house of refuge for many of the sufferers.

SNY LEVEE BREAKS. (BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

LOUISIANA, June 5.—The Snyder levee broke just below this city at 10:30 o'clock this morning, and the Mississippi is now falling here at the rate of 4 inches per hour on account of the break. The Snyder is the most important levee on the north end of the river, and incloses a fertile farming section from three to seven miles wide, containing over 10,000 acres.

There are several towns within the district, the population of which is probably 10,000.

AMMON BETRAYED HIM. (BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

NEW YORK, June 5.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) As soon as the twelfth juror was secured in the case of Col. Robert G. Ammon this afternoon, Judge Newburger declared adjournment, and committed the prisoner to the Tombs. Ammon's colored servant failed him when the decision was made. He had expected to remain out of jail on his $50,000 bail bond until his case was decided.

"Gentlemen of the jury," said Judge Newburger, "I do not commit the defendant to the Tombs with prejudice, and you shall entertain no prejudice on account of the prisoner's failure. Ammon is committed to the Tombs until Monday morning at 10 o'clock."

Ammon was stunned by the announcement, which means he must remain in the Tombs until his case is decided. He lingered in the courtroom as he could be heard taking the trip over the Bridge of Sighs.

Despite the statement of Dr. Campbell, surgeon of the Tombs, that Miller is a well man, he certainly looks the part of a nervous wreck. He is long and thin, and it was on his long legs that he decided to make my peace with God and tell all.

"Ammon betrayed me. Let that go by. I have suffered for whatever sins have committed. I do this for my wife and baby's sake. All along when I counted money by thousands and not by single dollars, when a $100 bill or a $1000 bill was to me a mere bagatelle, my wife pleaded with me to save up the syndicate."

"Will, she said, 'I'd rather that you would earn out this money honestly than have all this money. What are you getting out of it? Nothing.' That was the truth. I was made a scapegoat."

PHILIPPINE HURRICANE. VESSELS DRIVEN ASHORE. (BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

MANILA, June 5.—(By Manila Cable.) A hurricane, which swept over the Philippines and great damage has been done to shipping. The United States transport Shamsu is reported to have been wrecked. This, however, has not been confirmed. The United States steamer Pearl, which was driven ashore, was totally lost off Comoros Island. Part of her crew were saved.

SPECIAL RIVER BULLETIN. FIGURES FROM WASHINGTON. (BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.)

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Special river bulletin: "The Missouri River at Kansas City continues to fall steadily, the gauge reading this morning 31 feet, a fall of 1.9 feet since Thursday. The river will come to a stand at Bonneville, Mo., today, but will continue to rise to the eastward. The Mississippi continues to rise steadily from Dubuque southward. At Keokuk, the stage was 19.4 feet, 4.4 feet above danger line. The flood waters from the Iowa, Cedar and Skunk rivers are now entering the Mississippi above Keokuk, and there will be a further rise in that vicinity, which will continue several days. At St. Louis, the stage this morning was 23.5 feet, a rise of 1.4 feet since Thursday morning."

MILLERS' CRY OF ALARM.

Rate Discrimination in Favor of Wheat Causing Steady Decline in Export Trade in Flour.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.) DETROIT, June 5.—At the final session of the convention of the Millers' National Federation today, the Committee on Resolutions reported on the question of rate discrimination against flour, which they declared was the paramount issue before the millers of the country today. The memorial of the British Flour and Corn Trade Association on this subject which was presented to the convention Wednesday, was referred to the resolutions committee at the time. Today the committee reported that the memorial truthfully set forth conditions in the export flour trade, and said:

"We believe that the export flour trade will continue to decline unless flour and wheat are put at parity as regards rates of transportation."

STATE ENDEAVORER'S
DOINGS AT SAN DIEGO.PASO ROBLES LIKELY TO GET THE NEXT CONVENTION.

Afternoon Spent in Social Pursuits Proves a Pleasant Diversion for Delegates and Brings Them to Closer Acquaintance With One Another.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.—A.M.)
SAN DIEGO, June 6.—The third day of the State convention of the Christian Endeavorers was opened in the Presbyterian Church this morning by ex-State President L. S. Rogers, of Berkeley. The theme of the day, "If Any Man Serve Me Let Him Follow Me," pervaded the addresses and discussions throughout the morning session.

The "Quiet Hour" was in charge of Rev. E. W. Work of Berkeley, who had been selected to conduct this portion of the programme each morning during the convention.

The Bible study topic "Annotated for Service" which had been assigned to Rev. E. S. Chapman, of Los Angeles, was taken by Rev. A. B. Pritchard, of Pueblo, Colo., who dwelt upon the never-ending life and manifestations of Christ. Miss Alice McMillin, of San Jose, and Miss Belle Masons of San Diego added to the entertainment of the morning by solo and song. The address of welcome was delivered by Arlyn de Buri, who spoke of the evidences of greatly increased interest which members of the Christian Endeavor are taking in the work of the society and of the results as shown by accomplishment. The School of Methods, conducted by Rev. C. D. Crane, President of the Maine State Society, brought out many individual responses concerning experience. Prominent places in the discussion of junior and intermediate work were taken by Miss Partridge, Dr. Sarah E. Wise and Miss R. E. Smith, of San Francisco and Paul E. Brown of Los Angeles.

During the afternoon denominational rallies were held at the various churches in the city, which were largely attended. Features of the convention is the custom of giving over the afternoon to social pursuits. Many small parties were made up today to visit the out-of-town attractions. These pleasure jaunts and social gatherings in the town have brought the delegates into close personal acquaintance.

The question of where the next State convention will be held has been the cause of much pulling and tugging. The workers for the principal cities in the field as candidates were unremitting in their efforts to swing enough votes to get the convention. Paso Robles has made the most obvious fight, while Santa Rosa and Sacramento worked strenuously. The Paso Robles delegation was given the floor last night, and today the Sacramento and Santa Rosa adherents presented their arguments to the committee. The decision of the committee is to be announced tomorrow morning. During the afternoon, it became apparent that, while the committee's decision will not be officially announced until tomorrow, Paso Robles has been selected as the place for holding the next convention.

INTERCITY COURTESIES.

SAN DIEGO, June 5.—The San Luis Obispo delegation kept open house this afternoon. At the close of this morning's meeting the first Congregational Junior Endeavor Society of Oakland was awarded the prize banner for the greatest number of new members brought in during the year. Ex-State President Lionel S. Rogers received the banner for the society.

This evening the convention tent was again crowded. The exercises began with a praise service conducted by Dr. E. B. Newton of Santa Ana, president of the Orange County Association. A solo "Fear Not Ye, O Israel," was rendered by Miss Metta K. Segler of San Diego. A devotional service was conducted by Alfred Messinger of Sacramento, president of the Sacramento county union. Rev. E. S. Chapman of Los Angeles, superintendent of the State Anti-Slavery League, delivered the principal address of the evening. Among other features of the programme were: "Quiet Meditation and Prayer," conducted by Miss Edna Bush of Redding; an address on "Incentives to Service," by Rev. J. R. H. of San Jose; and a solo by Miss Alice G. McMillin of San Jose.

WILL VISIT CITY COUNCIL.

Property Owners in Griffith Avenue Assessment District Will Ask City Fathers to Abandon Proceedings.

An informal meeting of the property owners in the assessment district for the opening of Griffith Avenue was held last night at the home of J. W. Fawcett, No. 816 East Third-street. About 150 men and women were present, all full of resentment that they should now be called upon to put up their good money for a street that has been used as a thoroughfare for years, and has been curbed, sidewalked and planted to trees for a long time.

They believed that through a legal fight they would be able to present such facts as would knock out the assessment of damages, amounting to $295.56, which sum was awarded to the Southern Pacific Company and Mr. Boettcher.

Councilman Davenport of the Sixth Ward and Councilman McAlister of the First Ward were both present. Mr. Davenport made a statement showing that the proceedings were begun October 28, 1900, during the term of George Fessell as Councilman from the Sixth Ward; were carried through during Councilman Allen's term of office; that he had simply indorsed the appropriation of the amount to be raised among 147 property owners of the assessment district, and was in no way responsible for the starting of the movement for damages.

He stated that he would do all in his power to have the Council abandon the whole proceedings, and asked that the property owners be present at the Council meeting next Monday.

Mr. McAlister pledged himself to work for the abandonment of the proceedings.

A petition asking the Council to take this action was signed by 147 property owners and will be presented to the Council at 2:30. Monday afternoon, backed by the presence of 147 determined householders.

If there should be any hitch in the proceedings, many of the people of the district declare they will join forces and fight the matter in the court.

NEW KINKS IN UGLY CASE.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.)

VENTURA, June 5.—The rape case, in which Ed Gregg is charged with an assault upon little Georgie Mungari, came up before Judge Ewing and a jury in the Superior Court today. The first witness called was the little girl, Georgie Mungari. She told a straightforward story, and had no trouble until Attorney Shepherd took her in hand for cross-examination. His questions came so thick and fast that the child could not follow him, and becoming confused, broke down and began to sob. The court took a hand and admonished the attorney to not forget that he was talking to a child and not an adult. The attorney was somewhat persistent in his effort for his client, and the court called him down more severely. Then the attorney arose to explain, and said that the child was a witness, and in no uncertain language, to sit down. The audience regained its breath, but lost it again before the next witness had proceeded far in her testimony. This was the mother of the child. It didn't take her long to get at the meat of her evidence, which was to the effect that she had been offered money by Gregg and his friend, Bob Craig, to consent to the quenching of the case. She said that she had refused, and that she had said to her solicitation, and he had said he would give her $100 if she would have the child change her testimony. She asked Gregg if he had known about the matter, and he said yes. At another time, she said, she had seen Bob Craig and he had said to her, "If you will change your testimony, I will give you $100." She said that she had refused, and that she had said to her solicitation, and he had said he would give her $100 if she would have the child change her testimony. XXII<sup>d</sup> YEAR.

THE HONEYMOON COOK.

BY HARRIET C. CARFIELD.

THEY had been married two years—"long enough," Prue suddenly declared, "to dispense with all honeymoon demonstrations."

Tom Dawson put down his evening paper, and stared at the pretty little partner of his joys and sorrows. "I'm afraid I don't understand, dear," he said.

"Why, it's very simple. If you know that I care for you, and I am certain that you care for me, all signs of affection are quite superfluous—they may be dropped."

"Oh!" Tom said, dubiously. "Well, what shall I drop first? There was a twinkle in his eyes, and Prue saw it. "To be serious," she pleaded. "To begin with, you must not kiss me when you come home to dinner, and—other times. You must drop—"

"Drop you a courtesy instead," he interrupted her laughingly.

"Don't be ridiculous, Tom! You know very well that there are many useless customs that should be dropped—many things that should be dropped."

"Yes," he said, smiling whimsically. "Hannah thinks so. I know; she dropped my meerschaum this morning. We must take lessons of that girl."

"Prue—or drop her. On the whole, I think we'd better drop her."

"It will not be necessary," she said with dignity. "Hannah gave notice this morning. I shall have to find some one else within a week."

"I'm sorry—sorry. I mean, for the family she'll drop down on next; Hannah's no featherweight, you know. Speaking of dropping—"

"I am not speaking of it now. It is quite useless while you are in such a mood," she said indignantly, rising from her chair.

Before she could leave the room Tom was at her side. "Forgive me, dear," he said. "I didn't know you were in such a sober earnest. He stopped to kiss the pink cheek next to him, but Prue lifted a protesting hand. "Don't, Tom," she said. "You forget; it isn't necessary."

"No, it isn't necessary," (the words came soberly enough now) "only sweet and natural."

And the next day, when the time came to say good-by, Prue had no occasion to complain of his "honeymoon demonstrativeness."

"Tom is very sensible this morning," she said to herself, but she sighed as she said it, and went about all day with a wistful look in her blue eyes.

Tom was "sensible" in the evening, and the next morning he was so very sensible that Prue cried a little, but perhaps it was for joy; even "sensible" people do that!

That afternoon, Matilda made her appearance. Hannah came into the sitting-room to announce her arrival. Matilda Stebbins is here, Mrs. Dawson," she said, "after my place. Will I show her in ma'am? She and me used to work together once, and she's a dreadful good cook."

"Yes, I will see her," Prue said, and in a moment a tall, lank, freckle-faced girl was standing in the doorway, smiling at her. "Will you be seated?" Prue asked pleasantly, and the girl slid into a chair, still smiling.

"I hope you'll give me a try," she said, "I'd like first-rate to cook for you and him."

It was Prue's turn to smile. "Have you had much experience?" she asked. "Heaps of it, ma'am, but never long to one place."

"That seems strange!" Prue exclaimed. "Well, you see, ma'am, the honeymoons don't usually stretch out over as above six months."

"The honeymoons?"

"Yes, ma'am; I don't cook and do for some but new-married folks. Hannah told me about you and him when she first came here two months ago; she said as how she knew you was just married."

Prue blushed. "How did Hannah know it?" she asked.

"Easy enough, ma'am. It's like measles and whooping-cough; she could tell by the symptoms. I'd rather live where there's 'love-making' going on continually than read the best novel ever made up."

This was interesting, but very embarrassing to Mrs. Thomas Dawson. Two days ago she would have laughed heartily at Matilda's sayings, and have found much enjoyment in repeating them to Tom. But present conditions made the girl's remarks seem almost personal—yet she felt tempted to engage her.

"Matilda," she said, "did Hannah tell you the wages she received, and the work she was expected to do?"

"Yes, ma'am, she did, and I don't think she'd better herself none, going to work in a factory."

"Very well; I will give you a trial. When can you come?"

"I can stay now, ma'am, and get dinner, if you'll let me go home for my clothes when the word's rid up. Hannah wants to leave as soon as she can, anyways."

And so it happened that the honeymoon cook held sway in the Dawson kitchen when the owner of the house came home that evening.

"You will be glad to hear that I've engaged a new girl," Prue said to him in the distant polite tone that she had recently adapted, in speaking to her husband.

"Very glad," he answered, "if she is an improvement on Hannah."

The dinner was excellent, and Matilda was very attentive in her service at table, beaming on them as though she would say, "Bless you, my children!" Later in the evening, when they were (apparently) much absorbed in reading, they heard a strange sound—half cough, half sneeze—in the hall.

Prue looked up from the book. "What was that?" she said. Tom was on his way to the door, when Matilda entered the room. "It was me, ma'am," she said. "I never walk in on new-married folks without givin' 'em warnin' I'm a comin'—not at first. Of course they get used to me after a while, and go right on lovin' me. I do see 'em. Nothin' suits me better'n that!"

"If you please, ma'am," Matilda continued, "I'm goin' home now to get my clothes, and I'll say goodnight to you and him."

"Thought we were 'new-married' folks," did she? Tom said grimly. "I liked doing it. She's a good cook, I can imagine, and I hope we can keep her."

"We can," Prue said to herself, "if we will meet her peculiar requirements. But I'll not be driven into any foolishly unnecessary display of affection!"

For three days the Dawsons enjoyed the results of Matilda's culinary efforts, but a heavy heart will affect the best of appetites somewhat badly on the fourth day, Matilda complained that they didn't seem to relish their victuals, and she "guessed she'd better be head."

"Oh, no!" Prue cried, "no one could suit us better than you do!"

"I'm glad of that, ma'am, but there's another reason," and she hung her head.

Prue was painfully embarrassed, for she could guess the other reason. "I-I hope you will stay," she stammered. "I'll think it over 'till tomorrow, ma'am, but I feel as if Hannah hadn't been fair with me, leadin' me to expect things was different between you and him, from what they really be."

Tom came home later than usual that night. Prue was in the hall giving some instructions to Matilda when he opened the door. His eyes looked tired, and sad, she thought. She hesitated a moment—only a moment, for Matilda was present, and now was her opportunity to redeem herself in the girl's eyes—then she ran to meet her husband, and held up her face to be kissed. The tired look faded from his eyes as if by magic, and he put both arms around her, and held her close.

"Has my little wife come to her senses?" he asked.

"Hush!" she answered. "I still think it's unnecessary, but Matilda likes it; she refuses to stay unless we are affectionate-like," and she laughed hysterically.

"Oh," Tom said. "That was all, but there was a world of disappointment in the exclamation. Then he looked beyond his wife, at Matilda, who stood beaming at him, her hands clasped in ecstasy. "Well, she'll stay now," he said bitterly. "I congratulate you."

Yes, Matilda had decided to remain. She came to the sitting-room door after dinner to announce her decision.

After she had gone, Prue left her seat and moved restlessly about the room; and then she sighed—so deeply that Tom looked up from his paper. "Head-ache?" he asked.

"N-no," she said; her lips trembled, and she buried her face in her hands, and sobbed out, "It's just heartache, Tom."

"Heartache?" he asked gently. "I thought I had a monopoly of that."

Prue came close to his chair, and leaned against an arm of it. "Tom," she cried remorsefully, "Tom, dear, will you forgive me, and—her voice sank to a whisper—"kiss me!"

He caught her hands in his and drew her down beside him. "To please Matilda," he asked.

"Oh, Tom! You know better!"

"Because if it's to please that girl, I'll be hanged if I—"

TALKS WITH TRAVELERS.

Travelers from Mexico nowadays never lack for something interesting to tell concerning the wonders performed in the southern republic by American capital and enterprise.

Among the recent arrivals from across the border are Col. Frank Marsh, general manager of the American Paint and Varnish Works of Mexico City, and president of the Mexican White Lead Works, situated in the State of Durango, and Judge P. O. Saunders, a director in these concerns. They are at the Hollenbeck for a short visit.

Col. Marsh was formerly of this city, and Judge Saunders was well known in the legal circles of Texas before removing to Mexico.

The rate at which Mexico is being developed is the wonder of the day," said Col. Marsh last night. "In a large degree American capital is performing the transformation, aided and protected by one of the finest governments on earth. President Diaz is a wonderful character among the rulers of the world, beloved alike by his own people and by the foreigners in the republic; but so rapid has been the progress and general enlightenment of Mexico that there is little doubt that if he were to relinquish the reins of government today there are men competent to take his place without causing any deviation from the onward course of the nation."

Americans have done so much there in so short a time in building railroads and developing the field in general that they are highly regarded by the people and the government, and their chances for profitable investment are very great. The tariff protection afforded local industries is greatly in the favor of business enterprises there. By this protection the concern in which I am interested can put its goods on the local market at the cost of import duty and freight on goods from the outside, and this applies in other lines of business.

"At present the greatest wonders are being wrought in the development of the mining, cattle and manufacturing industries. As a mining field, Mexico is the wonder of the world. At Pachuca, for instance, there are mines 350 years old, which are still producing richly, while the country at large is just beginning to disclose mining regions as rich and inexhaustible for the years to come."

"One of the important moves which is about to be made in the general scheme of development is the building of about 600 miles of railroad, joining the limited railroad system of Yucatan, now unconnected with the rest of Mexico, with the Tehuantepec Railroad, affording an outlet to the latter's terminus on the gulf. Then every portion of the republic will be connected by rail, and the new line will pass through one of the richest hardwood regions of the world."

Concerning the possibilities of Mexico as a producer of oranges in commercial quantities, Col. Marsh and Judge Saunders have little doubt that the country will become a rival of Southern California in this industry. As an instance of the growing interest of this industry they mention the fact that 5000 acres of navel oranges were planted during the past year in a section of Jalisco by American horticulturists.

Arbitration.

Arbitration is usually supposed to be conducted by fair-minded men, but a recent case, that of the engineers in the stockyards at Chicago, shows that there are exceptions to the general rule. The engineers demanded 37½ cents per hour, but the ministers—two Protestants and one Catholic—thought that 20 cents would be the fair thing, and for arriving at this conclusion presented a modest demand for $1000 each, this bill to be paid by the packers and engineers jointly. Instead of being satisfied with it, the engineers in their meeting turned it down promptly, and demanded to know how much time the ministers had spent in considering the proposition; this was found to be 48 hours, in twelve sessions of four hours each. A motion was thereupon made to award each arbitrator the same amount that they awarded the engineers, and promptly carried. The total $12,000 was ordered paid each arbitrator, the union 20 per cent. "What measure ye mete unto others shall be meted to you again," from Age of May 7.

TWO OPERATIONS.

First You Must Cure the Grip, Then Banish Its After-Effects.

"I was worse after the grip had gone than I was when I had it," says Mr. J. L. Hamalle, proprietor of the Cosmopolitan hotel, at No. 115 South Madison avenue, Peoria, Ill. Many others who are still suffering from the effects of an attack of the grip will appreciate the statement. Mr. Hamalle continues: "The disease left me in bad shape. I had night sweats, sleep did not refresh me, I could not eat, grew weak and had severe chills. Then, worst of all, rheumatism set in and nearly crippled me."

"After spending considerable money for medicines that only made me worse, I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Then I began to improve and by the time six boxes were taken I was well and strong again. Since then I have always kept Dr. Williams' Pink Pills on hand and my family has taken them at various times, always with good results."

After every attack of grip the health is shattered—the blood becomes poor, the flesh falls away, the sufferer grows irritable, and even slight exertion causes shortness of breath. These (they are) are symptoms and indicate that the system is in a state that invites pneumonia, bronchitis or even consumption. A specific, however, has been found which not only will quickly restore the health after an attack of the grip and expel the lingering germs, but, working through the blood, will render the system proof against the disease. In hundreds of cases it has been shown that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People have accomplished this result. The power of these pills in the vast number of diseases due to impure blood or to derangement of the system, has been demonstrated in thousands of instances. No one who is suffering can rightfully neglect this way to restore health.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are sold by all dealers, or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price. 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50. (They are never sold in bulk or by the hundred) by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

BIBLE LESSONS.

FOR SUNDAY-SCHOOL TEACHERS AND OTHER BIBLE STUDENTS.

Prepared for The Times by J. S. Kirtley, D.D.

Sunday, June 7.

Acts xviii, 23-41: "Paul's Voyage and Shipwreck."

THE CONNECTION.

Paul is on the stormy seas making for Rome. His plan, corrected by the plan of God, is being carried out. He is at last to see Rome, but he is making his journey in a different way from what he had at first expected and all along preferred. He is going at the government's expense. He has two personal friends for company. Luke, the writer of the story, who seems to have stayed with him at Caesarea all the time of his imprisonment, and Aristarchus from Thessalonica. If we watch the letters Paul writes back from Rome we will hear him speak of them often. He has for keeper and guardian a kind-hearted centurion by the name of Julius. He is a Roman citizen on his way to trial, and seems to have been treated all along with some consideration. He had for his transportation a trading ship, bound, not for Rome, but for Adramyttium, upon the Egean Sea, near the Dardanelles. Sixty-seven miles up the coast they stopped at Sidon, where Paul went ashore and met his friends. On past the island of Cyprus to Myra, on the southeast coast of Asia, where they were to board a larger ship, carrying them from Alexandria in Egypt to Rome. It was late in the autumn (A.D. 60), and heavy seas made them "many days" in reaching the southern tip of the Asiatic Coast. Then trouble began. Southerly they made their way until they came to the island of Crete and hugged the southern shore till they came to a calm place called Fair Haven. Paul knew too well the treachery of the wintry sea, and advised them to winter there, but the centurion followed the advice of the ship's owners, and, as the weather seemed promising, undertook to creep along up the shore about seventy miles farther to Phenix, where they would have a place to winter in. The storm came on, and they drifted in darkness fourteen days, all of them in despair. Till Paul stood up and told them they would be safe if they obeyed the message from God. They believed him, for they saw that he was a great and noble man, and he would not let anything rash or cruel or selfish be done.

THE LESSON.

"Paul Comforts Them All." (Verses 23-27.) "And while they were coming on, Paul besought them all to take some food, saying, This day is the fourteenth day that ye wait and continue fasting, having taken nothing. Wherefore, I beseech you to take some food; for this is for your safety; for there shall not a hair of your head be lost. And when he had said this, and had taken bread, he gave thanks to God in the presence of all; and he broke and began to eat. (25) Then were they all of good cheer, and themselves also took food. (27) And we were in all in the ship two hundred three-score and sixteen souls. There were two nominal rulers on board, the captain of the ship and the captain of the soldiers, named Julius. But the real ruler was Paul, God's servant. His character reveals his willing obedience to God and his winning confidence. There they were, waiting through the darkness of the night, till the day should come and show them whether they were to be discouraged a plan of the sailors to escape from the ship on a false pretext and leave the soldiers and passengers asleep, and he had informed the centurion, who prevented the execution of the heartless plan.

He now comforts them, for that meant to make strong with the strength he himself had. He comforted and cheered them. Then he said: (L) He got them to eat. For fourteen days they had taken no regular meals nor sleep, and they were all of good cheer. (25) Then were they all of good cheer, and themselves also took food. (27) And we were in all in the ship two hundred three-score and sixteen souls. He gave them assurance that no one should perish. There was something in him that made them believe it. That assurance had come from God, and yet they were not to be discouraged by their own actions. They had to abide in the ship as he told them when the sailors were about to desert, or they could not be saved. And now this food was necessary to their safety.

(3) His calm confidence in God gave him ascendancy over their spirits and calmed them. The man was masterful because the God whom he loved and served was with him. This achievement was all the more remarkable because of the large number of people—many nationalities, prisoners, travelers—Romans, Greeks, Egyptians and Jews, and perhaps others.

"Paul Preparing for the Wreck." (Verses 28-31.) "(28) And when they had eaten the ship, throwing out the wheat into the sea. (29) And when it was day, they knew not the land; but they perceived a certain bay with a beach, and they took counsel whether they could drive the ship upon it. (30) And being driven off the anchors, they left them in the sea, at the same time loosing the bands of the rudders, and holding up the foresail to the wind, they made for the beach. (31) But lighting upon a place where two seas met, they ran the ship aground, and it broke in two, and the stern began to break up by the violence of the waves. The preparation showed that Paul's judgment was not disturbed by the long exciting trouble through which they had passed.

(L) One item in the preparation was taking their food. (2) They got the ship in as good condition as possible, by throwing over all burdens. In this case, wheat. (3) They kept a sharp lookout for the land as they could not know what it was till daylight, and then selected the place to try to land. (4) After reaching the beach, the anchors and leaving them, they prepared rudders, sails and everything for a bold run to shore. They purposely ran into a place where two currents met, identified in recent years as the channel between Malta and the small island of Salomona. While the two currents were breaking up the stern, the mud was holding the forepart safe so that all might escape. It was a moment of intense excitement, but the land was near, the water was not deep, food had given them vigor and the face of their found leader shone like a star. This account of the wrecking of the ship is accurate and shows mental and moral characteristics of Luke the writer. Ramsay bears testimony to it in strong terms. A cast-

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

SOME ANCIENT ASCETICS.

These Comments on the Uniform Prayer-meeting Book of the Christian Endeavor Society, the Baptist Young People's Union, etc., for June, Modern Lessons, from the Reclabites.—Lier, xxv, 134, 135-36.

By William T. Ellis.

The modern "simple life" movement is not new ideas. Long before the time of the printing of books there were men who perceived the wisdom of living simply, and unencumbered by a multitude of things. The Reclabites, who were a tribe of Kentes living among the Children of Israel, saw the building of comfortable houses and settling down to the enjoyment of possessions. So Jonadab, the head of the family, forbade these things in his descendants. They never were to drink wine or strong drink, nor to build houses nor to sow fields nor plant vineyards. They were to cling steadfastly to their old manner of life, living in tents and pursuing the simple customs that meant health and longevity. To this vow the Reclabites remained true.

He who has learned how to do without has learned the secret of possessing life's best.

Indulgence has spelled enervation,

throughout all the course of history.

The virtue, enduring races have been those who practiced simplicity and abstinence in their manner of life.

Principles that flourish only in the artificial atmosphere of religious hot-houses are poor plants. No belief or practice is worth holding anywhere which will not stand the test of everyday living. The Reclabites had a good thing, provided it can stand the test of the world. The Reclabites had convictions that could weather all trials. They were offered wine by Jeremiah, the prophet of Jehovah, but they refused

it. The Lord had not expected or intended that they should drink; he had put them to the test only for the sake of stirring up in the chosen people who claim direct descent from the Reclabites.

That the chosen people were to take warning from the heathen suggests that in this particular matter of total abstinence the Christian people may beed the example of the Reclabites.

Several cities, who have formed themselves into total abstinence organizations, have been the experts in the matter of strong drink, and if they think it a good thing to let alone, so should others who have not their special knowledge.

In barracks a soldier gathers about himself a few luxuries. His equipment steadily increases. He comes to feel that he cannot do without them. When he gets down to actual campaigning he finds that he must be equipped in what the old Greeks called the "lightness of the Reclabites." He finds that he must be free to move and to do any real fighting cannot expect to have the luxuries of his habits and indulgences. He must not accustom himself to any useless practice that is likely to become indispensable to him. The luxuries of his life should be free to move and strong to do and endure. Most of the impediment of civilization is in the last analysis, needless.

Jonadab must have been an observing man, for he saw the baleful effects of strong drink, even as every open-eyed man today sees it. This brief letter of a suicide, the gist of which was in its closing words, "Tell my friends to keep away from whisky."

Abstain from the lesser, obtain the greater.

Whatever is right to do is right to promise to do; there lies the justification for the total abstinence pledge.

Simplicity is the best proof of crookedness. It is not the crooked man who talks straight but the straight man who says nothing, who is the real power for probity. And, come to think of it, everybody has to preach a daily

sermon on straightness or crookedness, for none is exempt from standing in the pulpit called Example.

Comments on the Reclabites, a government topic for June, "Keep the Vision of Christ." "Where there is no vision the people perish," says the book of wisdom.

Ideals are the salvation of a nation or of an individual. Where there is no vision of Jesus the Christian life languishes and grows ineffective. A clear vision of Him is the remedy for all ills.

The summer days, when the current of life is diverted from its normal course, are days of temptation to the life of the young Christian. But here is a sovereign recipe that he can take with him to any new scenes and surroundings to help him keep his faith warm and his activities unabated.—

"Keep the Vision of Christ clear." A real and vivid apprehension of Jesus is the secret of Christian constancy and power.

Stephen saw Jesus from amid the rain of stones that was taking away his life; Saul saw him at noonday as he followed the procurator's road to Damascus; John saw him on his lonely island of exile. It is a vision of Jesus that sustains in adversity, restrains from wrong-doing, comforts in loneliness and inspires to service.

After all has been said, is not the real need of the church and the world today

a better vision of Jesus? If his friends saw him with clearer eyes, their lagging footsteps would be hastened as they bear the message of his love to all people, and their hearts would be warmer within them. Peace, purity and a new impulse for world-evangelization would be the effects of a truer and closer understanding of her Master on the part of the church. If the world could see Him as He is, instead of looking upon his imperfect representatives, and could hear his clear, sweet voice, instead of the jangling tones of his followers, it would make haste to satisfy all its needs by responding to his tender "Come unto Me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

Economy Prices on Men's and Boys' Clothing

Clothing for general uses need not be expensive to be serviceable. It is all right to have a suit tailor made for party wear or dress occasions if you can afford it, but the majority of clothing as now made by skilled union labor are as correct in fit and finish and embody all the newness of style that any individual tailor can put in; and yet, as they are made in quantities at large factories, can be so manufactured as to enable the retailer to offer the public equally as good suits as most exclusive tailors can produce and yet save the purchaser from 25 to 33 per cent. This means money in your pocket. To buy at Hamburger's means also absolute satisfaction for we have no such thing as dissatisfied patrons.

TELL AND HIS CHECKS.

Lad in American Derby Infandel Takes Manchester Cup—Baseball.

DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES

ALFALO, June 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.]—Abe Attell, the featherweight champion, who was to have fought Terry McGovern at Fort Erie, Saturday, will arrive in New York Monday with checks for $5000 and $10000 to "Young Corbett" for a championship of the world.

of 20 rounds for the featherweight championship of the world. He will post the money and will ignore his debt. He says that Corbett refuses to give him a chance to claim the 122-pound championship of the world and defend it against Attell also says that if it will not fight him, he will try to get another match with McGovern.

SMATHER'S BETS OFF.
 WILLMAN UNABLE TO RIDE.
 DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.

ALFALO, June 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.]—It was finally decided that Jockey Bullman, who started by his horse yesterday, could not ride to Chicago to ride McChesney in the National Handicap.

In consequence, E. E. Bullman, who is now in Chicago, has ordered three standing commissions on his horse aggregating $5000, money was to have been bet for at the poolroom of George C. Brennan at Memphis, Tenn., at Sam Waggoner at Dayton, O., and in the neighborhood of the Barker-Karpis interests at New Orleans.

price at which such overnight bets are laid are generally agreed by wire between the owner at trackside and the room proprietor. There would have been as much as in the Harlem ring had Bullman ridden his horse. The wager of $40,000 by Santors on Chukchunda at Long Beach last August, the Ullman syndicate book taking $20,000, generally conceded to be the largest individual bet ever made on a horse.

As a last resort, Smather's agent, J. F. Fuller, declined all overtures, and declined the ball in the dispute. It was then that the owner decided to call off all bets.

IN LOS ANGELES FAVOR.
 SCORE SIX TO FIVE.
 DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.

ST FRANCISCO, June 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After pounding the ball over the corner of the lot, and getting best of the hits by almost 3 to 1, the Reds lost to the Angels this afternoon by virtue of such base-running that it seems a shame to designate the footwork by such a name.

Newton, the star, had everything in his hands, but he could not get out of the inning from planting the bat in safe spots. Moskman revealed the going, and O'Hara was only a hind.

The game was won and lost in the ninth inning, through Lohman's obstinacy in making Lee do the pitching. A bad ankle. In the second Lee, three men in a row, without success, as sending the ball in the direction of the plate. The Recruits became of intimacy with Newton in the ninth, and O'Hara and Moskman drove hard double for a run. But the real cause of the defeat was a run, brought in by the sixth, which brought back two doubles, two singles and a run.

Lock passed Oakland again in the ninth. To fill Lohman's cup to the top of a line drive over the second in the ninth. It was a one-handed state. O'Hara was the hero. O'Hara came through with a clean blow.
